Leanne Neilson
Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs

This edition of Faculty Accomplishments highlights conference presentations, journal articles, books, grants and performances, awards, and appointments of California Lutheran University faculty from June 2009 through May 2010.

Faculty at CLU are passionate about teaching and mentoring students. Their scholarship informs their teaching, keeps them active in their discipline, allows opportunities for collaboration with colleagues, and models active intellectual rigor to their students. In addition to their own research and creative activities highlighted in this booklet, faculty at CLU are actively involved in mentoring student research, both at the graduate and undergraduate level. California Lutheran University’s weeklong Festival of Scholars is a celebration of these activities.

The spring 2010 Festival of Scholars included more than 200 faculty-mentored student presentations. These experiences create a powerful learning environment for students beyond the classroom. Some of these projects continue on to professional conference presentations or publications as was the case with Robert Meadows (Criminal Justice) who published an article with student Jennifer LaMoure on “Interviewing male and female jail inmates sentenced for drug offenses: Findings and implications” in the journal Criminal Justice Studies. Another example is undergraduate Nicole Sparkman, who had the opportunity to co-author a presentation with Paul Witman (Business) and Kapp Johnson (Business) at the Southern Association for Information Systems Annual Meeting.

Interdisciplinary work is encouraged at CLU and many faculty work across disciplinary boundaries in their teaching and scholarship. Silva Karayan (Education) and Michaela Reaves (History) are an example with their conference presentation on “Service-Learning: A Powerful Pedagogy to Promote Social Justice and Good Citizenship.”

CLU faculty received more than a million dollars in grants and contracts in the 2009-10 academic year. Grants were awarded from a variety of funders including the U.S. Department of Education, the National Science Foundation, the City of Thousand Oaks, and the Verizon Foundation. One grant, in the amount of $46,500 from the Environmental Protection Agency, was acquired by Grady Hanrahan (Chemistry) and undergraduate student Jennifer Arceo to support Jennifer’s research and educational activities.

I continue to be impressed with the quality of work by CLU faculty from theatre and music presentations to artistic exhibitions, to an array of conference presentations and journal articles. I invite you to read through this booklet to see for yourself the range of activities achieved by CLU’s faculty in 2009-10.

Julie Kuehnel
2010 President’s Award for Teaching Excellence
B.A., California Lutheran College
Ph.D., University of Texas, Austin

A former CLU president created the Teaching Excellence award in 1995 to recognize professors who are held in high esteem by their peers, the students and the university community. Psychology professor Julie Kuehnel is the recipient of this year’s award.

A psychology major who graduated with honors from CLU in 1969, Kuehnel earned a doctorate in educational psychology from the University of Texas at Austin and returned to her undergraduate alma mater to join the faculty in 1975. She teaches courses in abnormal psychology, counseling and psychotherapy, applied psychology, and criminal psychology.

Kuehnel is an enthusiastic professor and her highly interactive courses challenge students to apply theory and concepts to case studies, problems, and issues.

“Learning facts is only the first step in education,” says Kuehnel, chair of the social and behavioral sciences division. “Students must learn to evaluate, analyze and apply material to become educated.”

Students rave about the interesting small group discussions in Kuehnel’s classes and her creative, meaningful assignments, all of which help them better understand psychology and decide on the professional path they will pursue. Kuehnel, a licensed clinical psychologist who specializes in behavior therapy, is an inspiring professor who also focuses on mentoring students toward fulfilling their career aspirations.

Kuehnel co-wrote the 2004 book Evil Minds: Understanding and Responding to Violent Predators with CLU criminal justice professor Robert J. Meadows. She has also published a book on marital therapy, journal articles and book chapters on behavior therapy and the treatment of mental disorders.

Sharon D. Docter
2010 Professor of the Year
B.A., J.D., University of California, Los Angeles
Ph.D., University of Southern California

Sharon Docter, Professor of Communication, was selected by the undergraduate seniors as “2010 Professor of the Year.” An attorney with a doctorate in communication theory and research, Sharon Docter brings a special dimension to the Communication Department. Along with working in securities and general business litigation, she has studied regulations of broadcasting, cable television and telephone companies. Her current research examines the regulation of new technologies such as the Internet. Professor Docter joined the CLU faculty in 1992 and teaches courses in media law, public speaking, communication theories, argumentation and business law. She currently serves as Chair of the Communication Department.

Akiko Yasuike
2010 Diversity Professor of the Year
B.A., Kwansai Gakuin University
B.A., Gonzaga University
M.A., California State University, Northridge
Ph.D., University of Southern California

Akiko Yasuike, Assistant Professor of Sociology, was selected by the undergraduate seniors as “2010 Diversity Professor of the Year.” Professor Yasuike is a sociologist whose research interests include gender, families, immigration, ethnic identity and Japanese society. Educated both in Japan and the United States, she brings international and cross-cultural perspectives into class discussions and raises awareness of global and cultural diversity in students.

Dr. Yasuike joined the CLU faculty in 2006 and currently serves as Program Coordinator of the Women’s Studies minor and Assistant Director of the Global Studies program. She is actively involved in the Japanese community in Southern California and serves as a board member for the U.S.-Japan Relationship Fund, Inc.

About the University
California Lutheran University has seen remarkable growth since its founding 50 years ago. One of the University’s strongest attributes, and one of the reasons it has gained support over the years, is that it has kept pace with the changing needs of students while remaining true to its mission - to educate leaders for a global society who are strong in character and judgment, confident in their identity and vocation, and committed to service and justice.

The 225-acre campus, at one time the ranch of Richard Pederson, the son of Norwegian immigrants, is now home to a dynamic liberal arts and science university with more than 2,300 undergraduate students and 1,300 graduate students from 40 states and 36 countries. Under the direction of President Chris Kimball, the University is reaffirming its commitment to excellence and making great strides in accomplishing the ambitious goals of its Strategic Plan.

Academic Excellence
Central to the University’s academic excellence is a dedicated teaching faculty, who come to CLU from some of the finest universities in the world. Of the 144 full-time faculty members, 86 percent have earned their doctorate or terminal degree.

Through its College of Arts and Sciences, School of Business and School of Education, CLU offers 36 undergraduate majors, 31 minors and professional preparation programs in specified fields of study. An accelerated Adult Degree Evening Program (ADEP) is designed to meet the needs of part-time returning adult students.

CLU’s highly regarded graduate programs include doctorates in educational leadership, higher education leadership and clinical psychology, and master’s degrees in education, psychology, computer science, business administration, information systems and technology, public policy and administration, and economics. A number of post-graduate credential and certification programs are also offered. MBA and certificate programs in financial planning are available online. Off-campus centers are conveniently located in Woodland Hills and Oxnard.

Partnering with the Community
Strengthening partnerships with the business community to develop a better-educated workforce and to provide current data to assist with economic decision-making is an ongoing objective of the School of Business. The establishment of the CLU Center for Economic Research and Forecasting (CERF) and the addition of a master’s program in economics expand the University’s impact and contribution to the business community.

The School of Education continues to partner with area schools and businesses to enhance teacher preparation and pupil education. A unique collaboration between CLU, the Conejo Recreation and Park District, and the City of Thousand Oaks resulted in the construction of a community swimming pool located next to the Samuelson Aquatics Center.

Dynamic Growth
CLU’s growth and achievements are reflected in its dynamic physical environment. The growing athletics complex on the north side of campus includes the Gilbert Sports and Fitness Center, the George “Sparky” Anderson Baseball Field and Ullman Stadium, Hutton Softball Field, Poulson Tennis Center, Samuelson Aquatics Center, and venues for soccer and track and field. Construction will begin on Rolland Football Stadium this fall. Over the next year, a new KCLU building and Early Childhood Center will be completed on the north campus.

On the south side of campus, the Swenson Center for Social and Behavioral Sciences, CLU’s first LEED-certified structure, will open this fall. Completion of this center leads the way for a new science facility and a performing arts center.
