Leanne Neilson
Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs

This edition of Faculty Accomplishments highlights conference presentations, journal articles, books, grants, exhibitions and performances, awards, and appointments of California Lutheran University faculty from June 2010 through May 2011.

CLU faculty members are passionate about teaching and mentoring students. Scholarship informs their teaching and models active intellectual rigor to students, while keeping faculty members current in their disciplines and creating opportunities for collaboration with colleagues. Both at the graduate and undergraduate levels, faculty members at CLU are actively involved in mentoring student research. In the spring of 2011, the week-long Festival of Scholars included more than 300 faculty-mentored student projects. Nineteen of these students went on to give presentations at regional and national conferences.

A number of CLU’s faculty members co-presented with students at professional conferences. Examples include Assistant Professor of IT Management Paul Witman’s presentation with student Chris Njunge at the Association for Information Systems Student Chapters Conference in Atlanta, Associate Professor of Psychology Marylie Gerson’s presentation with undergraduate student Nathaniel Fernandez at the American Psychological Association conference, and Assistant Professor of Educational Leadership Edlyn Pena’s presentation with doctoral student Joy Hoffman at the American Educational Research Association meeting in New Orleans.

CLU faculty members gave professional presentations last year in Canada, China, Curacao, the Czech Republic, England, Finland, Greece, Japan, Portugal, Puerto Rico, Singapore and throughout the United States.

Interdisciplinary work is encouraged at CLU, and many faculty members work across disciplinary boundaries in their teaching and scholarship. As one example, Professor of English Joan Wines and Professor of Political Science Michael Brint collaborated on a conference presentation on “Teaching and Learning Devices for a Mobile Generation.”

I continue to be impressed with the quality of work by CLU faculty, from theatre and music presentations to artistic exhibitions, to an array of conference presentations and journal articles. The range of faculty appointments in 2010-11 attests to the broad community and professional involvement at CLU. I invite you to read through this booklet to see for yourself the array of achievements by CLU’s faculty for the 2010-11 academic year.

Pamela K. Brubaker

2011 President’s Award for Teaching Excellence

B.A., Roosevelt University, Chicago, Illinois
M.A., United Theological Seminary, Dayton, Ohio
M.Phil., Ph.D., Union Theological Seminary, New York, New York

A former CLU president created the Teaching Excellence award in 1995 to recognize professors who are held in high esteem by their peers, the students and the university community. Religion professor Pamela K. Brubaker, who retired in May after 17 years at CLU, is the recipient of this year’s award.

Born in Gratis, Ohio, Brubaker earned a bachelor’s degree in sociology from Roosevelt University in Chicago, a master’s degree from United Theological Seminary in Ohio and a master’s degree and doctorate in Christian social ethics from Union Theological Seminary in New York. Before coming to CLU, she taught at Cleveland State University and College of Wooster.

Brubaker taught courses in Christian and religious ethics. She is known for her devotion to her students and her dedication to continually revising and improving her courses. She brought activists and community leaders to campus to expose students to complex domestic and global social justice issues and led engaging discussions and debates in her classes.

A Christian social ethicist and activist, she has passionately sought peace, justice and advocacy for the disadvantaged. Brubaker has conducted research throughout the world and published extensively on the topics of economic ethics and feminist studies in religion. She has written, co-written and edited many articles and books including Globalization at What Price? Economic Change and Daily Life, Justice in a Global Economy: Strategies for Home, Community and World, Women Don’t Count:The Challenge of Women’s Poverty to Christian Ethics, and Justice Not Greed.

A participant in several World Council of Churches consultations on economic globalization, Brubaker attended the Ninth Assembly in Brazil in 2006 and was a member of the 2009 Advisory Group on Economic Matters. She has been an active member of the American Academy of Religion and the Society of Christian Ethics.
Louise A. Kelly
2011 Professor of the Year
B.Sc., Ph.D., University of Glasgow, Scotland

Assistant professor of exercise science Louise A. Kelly was selected by the undergraduate seniors as 2011 Professor of the Year. Kelly, who joined the CLU faculty in 2008, is known for going the extra mile for students, whether to help them understand a difficult concept, get into graduate school or deal with personal problems. She has conducted research on the etiology, prevention and treatment of pediatric obesity, using her expertise in methodologies such as nutritional assessment, accelerometer, indirect calorimeter, and doubly labeled water. Her current research focuses on the role of exercise in the prevention and treatment of pediatric obesity and metabolic disorders. She recently completed research projects funded by the National Cancer Institute and the National Center on Minority Health and Health Disparities. Kelly earned her B.Sc. in physiology and sports science and Ph.D. in pediatric exercise science from the University of Glasgow, Scotland. She subsequently completed a three-year postdoctoral fellowship in preventative medicine at the University of Southern California.

Rahuldeep Singh Gill
2011 Cultural Diversity Professor of the Year
B.A., University of Rochester, New York
M.A., Ph.D., University of California, Santa Barbara

Assistant professor of religion Rahuldeep Singh Gill was selected by the undergraduate seniors as 2011 Cultural Diversity Professor of the Year. Gill, who joined the CLU faculty in 2009, is a Sikh and an expert on the evolution of Sikh institutions and the interaction of Sikhs, Muslims and Hindus. By sharing his background and encouraging discussions in his classes, he broadens students’ perspectives, deepens their appreciation of diversity and inspires them to be more understanding and compassionate. His courses include Introduction to Christianity, Religion in South Asia, South Asian Islam, Sikh Tradition and Introduction to the Study of Global Religions. Currently, Gill is working to publish translations of seminal 17th-century Sikh texts. He chairs the Religion and Global Change Working Group at CLU’s Center for Equality and Justice and is working to create an Asian Studies minor. Gill has a bachelor’s degree in religion from University of Rochester and a master’s and doctorate in religious studies from University of California, Santa Barbara.

About the University

California Lutheran University has seen remarkable growth since its founding 50 years ago. One of the University’s strongest attributes, and one of the reasons it has gained support over the years, is that it has kept pace with the changing needs of students while remaining true to its mission - to educate leaders for a global society who are strong in character and judgment, confident in their identity and vocation, and committed to service and justice.

The 225-acre campus, at one time the ranch of Richard Pederson, the son of Norwegian immigrants, is now home to a dynamic liberal arts and science university with more than 2,500 undergraduate students and 1,300 graduate students from 39 states and 56 countries.

Under the direction of President Chris Kimball, the University is reaffirming its commitment to excellence and making great strides in accomplishing the ambitious goals of its Strategic Plan.

Academic Excellence

Central to the University’s academic excellence is a dedicated teaching faculty, who come to CLU from some of the finest universities in the world. Of the 154 full-time faculty members, 85 percent have earned their doctorate or terminal degree.

Through its College of Arts and Sciences, School of Management and Graduate School of Education, CLU offers 36 undergraduate majors, 31 minors and professional preparation programs in specified fields of study. An accelerated Adult Degree Evening Program (ADEP) is designed to meet the needs of part-time returning adult students.

CLU’s highly regarded graduate programs include doctorates in educational leadership, higher education leadership, and clinical psychology, and master’s degrees in education, psychology, computer science, business administration, information systems and technology, public policy and administration, and economics. A number of post-graduate credential and certification programs are also offered. MBA and certificate programs in financial planning are available online. Off-campus centers are conveniently located in Woodland Hills and Oxnard.
Partnering with the Community

Strengthening partnerships with the business community to develop a better-educated workforce and to provide current data to assist with economic decision-making is an ongoing objective of the School of Business. The establishment of the CLU Center for Economic Research and Forecasting (CERF) and the addition of a master’s program in economics expand the University’s impact and contribution to the business community. The School of Education continues to partner with area schools and businesses to enhance teacher preparation and pupil education. A unique collaboration between CLU, the Conejo Recreation and Park District, and the City of Thousand Oaks resulted in the construction of a community swimming pool located next to the Samuelson Aquatics Center.

Dynamic Growth

CLU’s growth and achievements are reflected in its dynamic physical environment. The growing athletics complex on the north side of campus includes the Gilbert Sports and Fitness Center; the George “Sparky” Anderson Baseball Field and Ullman Stadium; Hutton Softball Field; Poulson Tennis Center; Samuelson Aquatics Center; and venues for soccer and track and field. William Rolland Stadium is under construction and scheduled for completion this fall. Also on the north campus, the new KCLU Broadcast Center and Fredrickson Family Early Childhood Center were completed this spring.

On the south side of campus, the Swenson Center for Social and Behavioral Sciences, CLU’s first LEED-certified structure, opened in fall 2010. Completion of this center leads the way for a new science facility and a performing arts center.
